On taking on a derelict croft, it is worthwhile to assess all your options for the croft and formulating a plan before taking steps to address the croft condition. The practical guides we have available in this series will help you to assess this.

As a starting point, It is useful to think on the following points:-

- Look ahead at what you wish to get out of the croft

- What time you have available to work the croft?

- Are there family and work commitments to contend with?

- The level of financial input you wish to put into the croft
